- Alivardi Khan took control of Bengal in 1740. He started running an independent government away from the Mughals. Hence, the conflict between the Nawab and the British for business interests was natural.

- After the death of Alivardi Khan in 1756, his grandson Siraj-ud-Daulah became the Nawab of Bengal. Siraj-ud-Daulah was the son of the youngest daughter of Alivardi Khan. His other sons-in-law (deputy-Nawabs of Dhaka and Purnia) were unhappy with Siraj-ud-Daulah becoming the Nawab.

- The first conflict between Siraj-ud-Daulah and the Company took place on 4 June 1756 in Kasim Bazar. He captured Calcutta on 16 June 1756. British officer Roger Drake had to leave Calcutta. Siraj-ud-Daulah captured Fort William of Calcutta and named Calcutta as Alinagar. In the course of this conflict, the incident of the Kaal Kothri (Black Hole) was popularized by Holwell.

- According to Holwell, the incident of the black hole took place in Calcutta on 20 June 1756. According to him, Siraj-ud-Daulah locked 146 British prisoners in a room 18 feet long and 14 feet wide. On opening the room on 23 June, only 23 people survived and 123 people died of suffocation. After this incident, Clive took over Calcutta and forced Siraj-ud-Daulah to sign the Treaty of Alinagar on 9 February 1757.

- Clive accused the Nawab of breaking the Alinagar Treaty. After which, on 23 June 1757, the Battle of Plassey took place between the British and Siraj-ud-Daulah on the banks of Bhagirathi, a distributary of the Ganges. In the battle, Mir Jafar (Nawab's commander), Raidurlabh (Dewan), Manikchand (officer in charge), Amichand (trader), Jagatseth (banker) supported the British. Mir Madan and Mohan Lal were the commanders who participated in the war on behalf of Siraj-ud-Daulah. On the other hand, Mir Qasim dismissed the deputy governor of Bihar, Ram Narayan, from his post and got him killed because he was not ready to give details of Bihar's income and expenditure.

- ◆ The Battle of Buxar was fought on 22 October 1764 between the combined army of the three and the British (led by Hector Munro). The combined army was defeated in this battle. (At the time of this war, the Nawab of Bengal was Mir Jafar, for whom this was his second tenure.)
- ◆ Under the Treaty of Allahabad 12 August 1765, Mughal Emperor Shah Alam II had to give the Diwani (revenue collection) rights of Bihar, Bengal and Odisha to the East India Company in exchange for an annual pension of 26 lakh rupees. In return, the Mughals received the Kara of Awadh and the area of Allahabad from Awadh.
- ◆ Dual government was established in Bengal by Clive in 1765 AD. Under this, the administrative responsibility was handed over to the Nawab and the British kept the right of military and tax collection with themselves. As a result of dual rule, a severe famine struck the region of Bengal and Bihar in 1770 AD. The outbreak of famine was terrible in Patna, Bhagalpur, Darbhanga, Purnia. Dual rule was abolished and the post of Nawab was abolished by the Governor of Bengal Warren Hastings in 1772 AD. The last Nawab of Bengal was Mubarak-ud-Daula.
- ◆ After receiving the diwani rights in 1765, Robert Clive appointed Raja Shitab Rai as Naib Diwan for revenue collection in Bihar, Muhammad Raza Khan for Bengal and Rai Durlabh for Orissa.
- ◆ In 1783, Bihar again faced famine. Investigation officer John Shore suggested the construction of a granary. On his suggestion, Golghar was constructed in Patna in 1784 by British engineer John Garstin.

G-h-o-s-t India of My Dreams

I shall work for the creation of such an India in which the conditions will be such that even the poorest people will consider it their own country, in whose development their voice will be effective and India will be a great country where there will be no upper or lower class people, where people of all communities will be able to live in perfect harmony, in such an India there will be no curse of untouchability, nor of alcoholism or drug addiction, women will also be able to get equal rights as men....

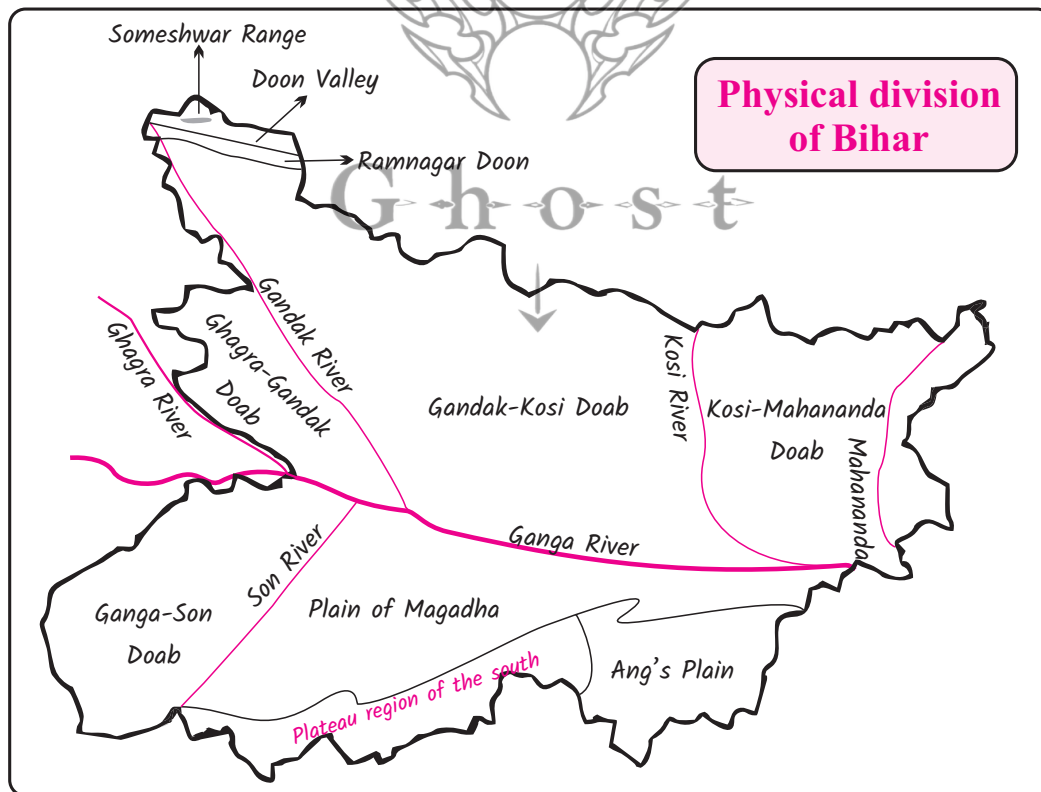

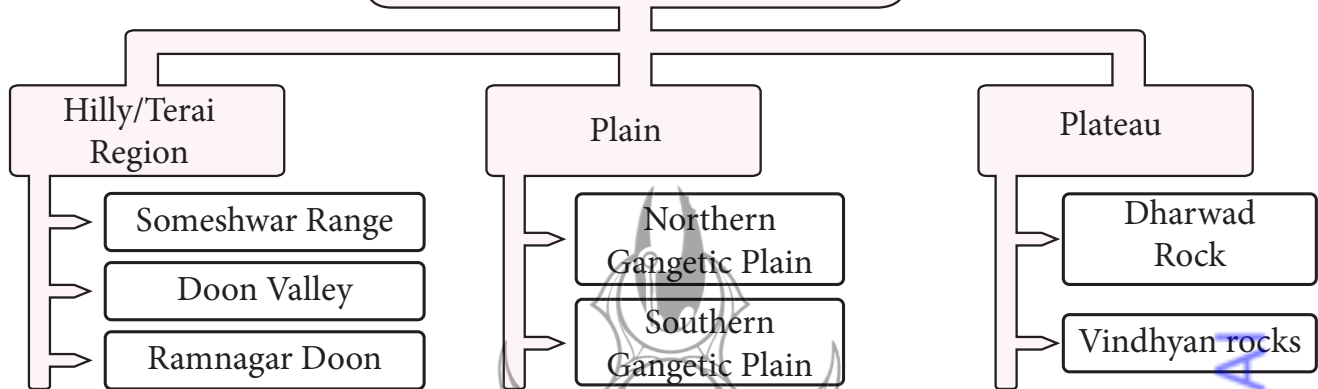

This is the India of my dreams.

- Mahatma Gandhi

Bihar is geographically a plain state. It is a prosperous region located in the plains of the Ganges. It extends from the Terai region of Nepal to the Vindhya hills and the rocky region of Dharwad. Bihar is a state located in eastern India which is geographically divided into three parts.

Physical division of Bihar

Hilly/Terai Region

Hilly/Terai Region - The Shivalik range of the Himalayas is located in the north-western part of Bihar. Its total area is about 932 sq km. It is mainly spread in West Champaran district. It is divided into three sub-parts -

- (i) Someshwar Range - This range forms the international border between India and Nepal. It is in the northern border which stretches from the point where the Triveni Canal starts and ends near the Bhikhna Thori pass. This range was formed in the Tertiary period. These hills are situated in the northern Ganga plain and surround the north-western part of Bihar. The highest peak of the state, Someshwar Hill (874 m) is situated in this range.
- (ii) Ramnagar Doon - Ramnagar hill range is situated on the southern edge of the Someshwar Hills. It is situated on the bank of the Gandak River, about 40 km from Bettiah district headquarters. Ramnagar Doon is a range of many small hills which spreads over an area of 214 sq km. It can be seen as the southern range. This southern hill range is 32 km long and 6-8 km wide. The highest peak of this range is near Santpur (242 m). The Harha river valley lies to the north-east of Ramnagar Doon.
- (iii) Doon Valley - This valley lies between the Someshwar and Ramnagar ranges. It is also known as Doon Valley. It is 21 km long and 152 m high. It spread over an area of 214 sq km. The maximum height of this valley is about 240 m.

Plain Region

Plains - 96 percent of the total land area of Bihar is plain. This plain is formed by the deposits of Ganga and its tributaries. Ganga river flows through the middle of this plain. It is divided into two sub-parts based on the location of Ganga river.

- (1) Northern Ganga Plain - This plain is located to the north of Ganga river. This plain is formed by the alluvial deposits of rivers like Gandak, Ghaghara, Burhi Gandak, Bagmati, Kamla Balan, Kosi and Mahananda. It covers the area of Tirhut, Saran, Purnia, Darbhanga and Kosi divisions and extends from Ghaghara- Gandak Doab in the west to Mahananda valley in the east. The north-western part of this plain which is situated in East and West Champaran district is known as the high altitude Terai region. The slope of this plain is from north to south and from north-west to south-east. The northern part of this plain is relatively higher. It is the place of alluvial fan formed by the sediments of the rivers Gandak, Burhi Gandak, Kosi and Mahananda. This plain of North Bihar is divided into doabs (land between two confluent rivers). Ghaghra- Gandak Doab, Gandak-Kosi Doab and Kosi-Mahananda Doab are the doabs in Bihar.
 - (i) Ghaghra-Gandak Doab
 - (ii) Gandak-Kosi Doab
 - (iii) Kosi-Mahananda Doab

(2) South Ganga Plain- South Ganga Plain is situated between the southern plateau-hilly region and south of Ganga river. Its size is smaller as compared to the northern Ganga plain. It is a triangular shaped plain and is also known as Magadh Plain. It is surrounded by Ganga river in the north, Tal region in the east, southern hilly area in the south and Son river in the west and it includes Gaya, Jehanabad, Aurangabad, Patna, Nalanda and Nawada districts. This plain is formed by the Ganga river, its main tributaries like Punpun, Son and Falgu river. The slope of this plain is from south-west to north-east. This region is divided into three sub-parts-

- (i) Ganga-Son Doab
- (ii) Magadh Plain
- (iii) Anga Plain

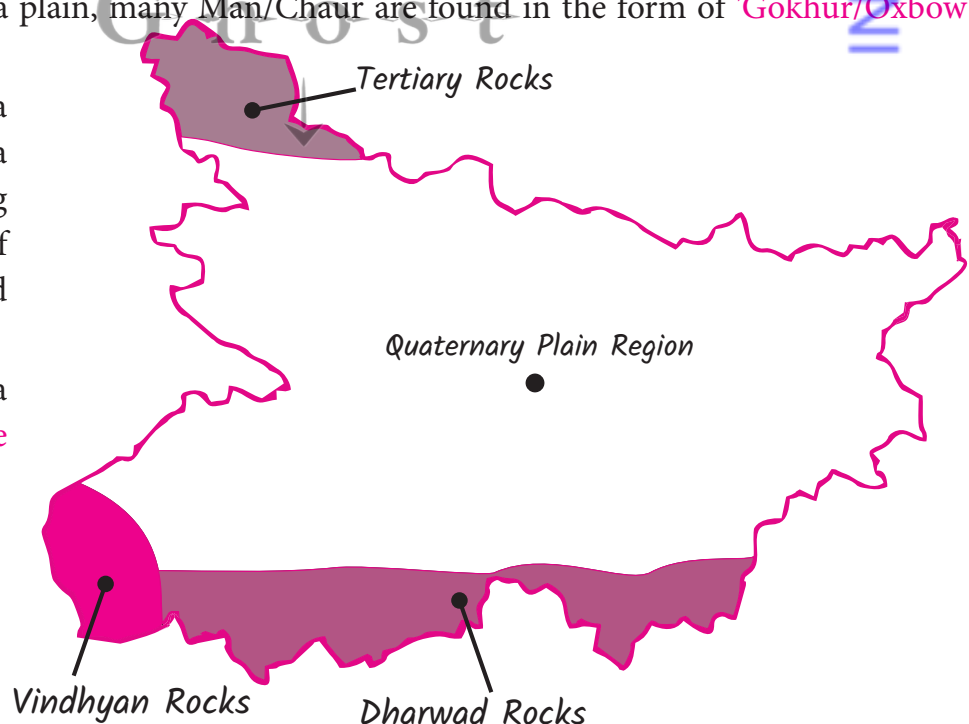

Plateau

Plateau - There are plateaus and hilly areas on the southern border of Bihar, which share the border with Jharkhand. Two types of rocks are located in the plateau region situated in the south-

- ◆ December and January are the coldest months in Bihar. The coldest district is Gaya.
- ◆ In the months of December-January, due to the temperate cyclone coming from the Mediterranean Sea, light rainfall occurs in western and central Bihar. This rain is beneficial for the Rabi crop.
- ◆ Extreme cold is very beneficial for the Rabi crop in Bihar.

Agro-climatic zones in Bihar

- ◆ In Bihar, the agro-climatic zone has been divided into three categories on the basis of agricultural conditions and crop classification. The third category of southern Bihar has been divided into two sub-categories.
- ◆ Zone-1 Represents the north-west region of Bihar, where alluvial soil is predominant and this region is famous for food grain production. Sugarcane production is highest in this region.
- ◆ Zone-II Represents the north-east region of Bihar. Along with food crops, rain-fed crops are also predominant in this region. Maize, tea, jute are produced in this region.
- ◆ Zone-III (A) Represents the south-east part of Bihar. Due to lack of rainfall in this region, coarse grains are given priority over food crops.
- ◆ Zone-III (B) Represents the south-west part of Bihar. In this region, food crops are predominant in production due to the Son irrigation canal system..

River Valley Projects of Bihar

Three multipurpose projects have been constructed in Bihar for the purpose of water management. These projects target flood control, irrigation management, water conservation, tourism, transportation, energy production etc.

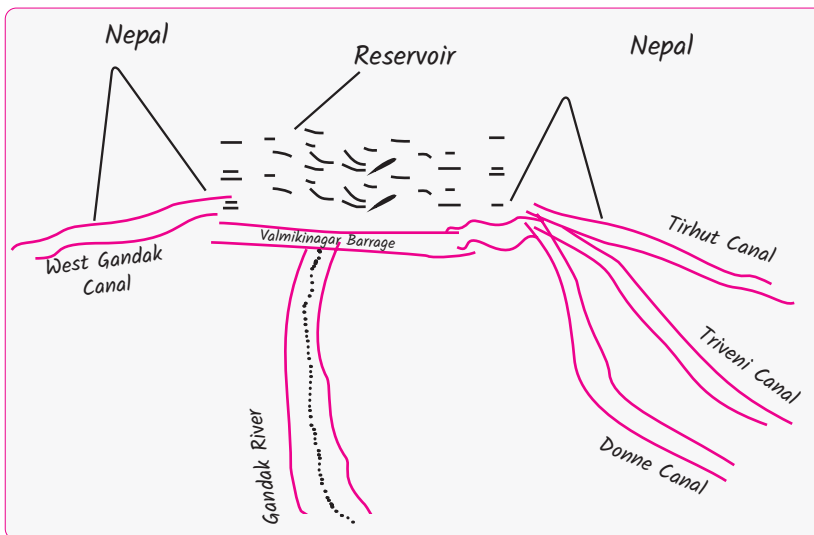

★ Son Multipurpose Project

- ◆ Son River Project was constructed in 1874 in Dehri (Rohtas).
- ◆ This multipurpose river project is the oldest and first river valley project of Bihar.
- ◆ By constructing a dam on Son River near Barun in Dehri, two canals have been drawn from both the banks.
- ◆ Eastern Son Canal - Irrigation is done from this canal up to Aurangabad, Gaya, Jehanabad, Arwal, Patna.
- ◆ Western Son Canal - Irrigation is done from this canal in Rohtas, Kaimur, Buxar, Bhojpur etc. districts.
- ◆ Two hydroelectric power stations have been established on Son Canal, Dehri Hydroelectric Power Station (6.6 MW) and Barun Hydroelectric Power Station (3.3 MW).

★ Gandak Multipurpose Project

- ◆ Gandak Project is a joint project of India and Nepal. Bihar, Uttar Pradesh and Nepal get its benefits.
- ◆ An agreement was signed with Nepal in 1959 for the Gandak Project. The work on this project started in 1960.
- ◆ Under this project, a reservoir has been constructed by building a dam on the Gandak River near Bhainsalotan on the India-Nepal border.
- ◆ This barrage/dam is built near Triveni Sangam near Valmikinagar.
- ◆ In the Gandak Project, canals has been drawn from the reservoir towards the east and west.
 - Eastern Gandak Canal ● Western Gandak Canal
- ◆ The Eastern Canal is divided into three parts which are known as Tirhut, Triveni and Don Canal.
- ◆ Tirhut, Triveni and Don Canal provide irrigation in West Champaran, East Champaran, Muzaffarpur, Vaishali etc. districts.
- ◆ The western canal originates from the reservoir through Nepal. Apart from irrigation in Nepal, the tributary canals originating from it irrigate Gorakhpur, Deoria in Uttar Pradesh and Siwan, Saran in Bihar.
- ◆ Under this project, a 15 MW hydroelectric power station has been set up on the eastern canal. A similar power station has also been built on the western canal.

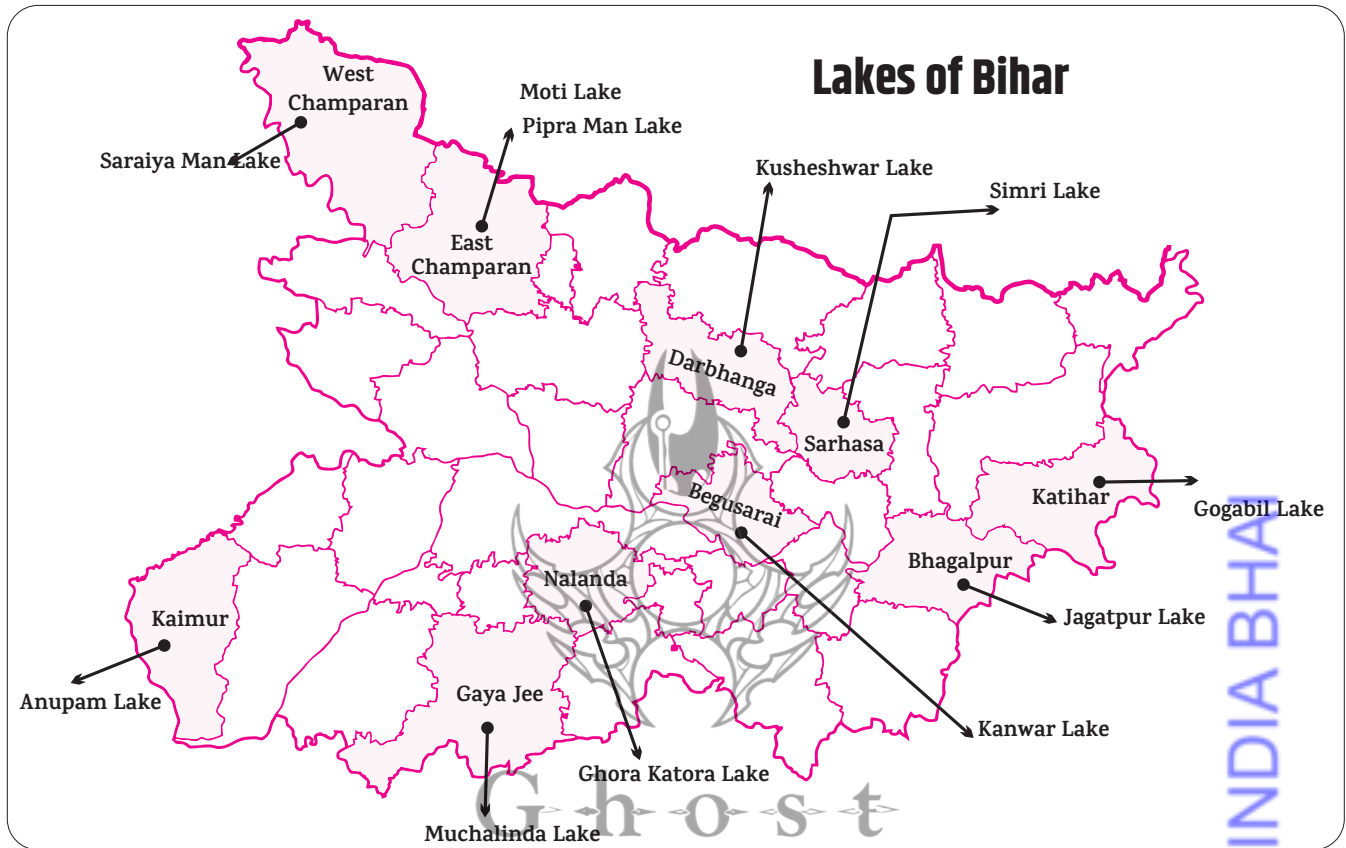

★ Kosi Multipurpose Project

- ◆ Kosi Project is a joint project of India and Nepal. This project was established in 1953 AD. This project was implemented in 1954 AD.
- ◆ Under this project, a reservoir has been constructed in Nepal by building Hanuman Nagar Dam. This project was completed in 1965 AD.

- ❖ Canals have been constructed towards east and west from the reservoir built on Kosi.
 - Eastern Kosi Canal - This provides irrigation in Araria, Supaul and Purnia etc.

Soil of Bihar

- ◆ The coarse, medium and fine organic and inorganic mixed particles spread on the upper surface of the earth are called soil.
- ◆ Soil is formed as a result of the disintegration of rocks along with physical and chemical changes occurs in them.
- ◆ Topography, rainfall, humidity, temperature, natural vegetation etc. play a major role in the formation of soil.
- ◆ The study of soil is called Pedology. World Soil Day is celebrated on 5 December.
- ◆ Bihar is a plain state where alluvial/non-alkaline/loamy soil is found in about 90% of the area.
- ◆ Soil in Bihar is divided into North Bihar and South Bihar as follows-

Soil of North Bihar	Soil of South Bihar
Peidmont Soil	Tal soil
Terai Soil	Kagaari soil
Old Alluvial (Bangar) Soil	Old alluvial (Karail-Kewal) soil
New Alluvial (Khadar) Soil	Red yellow (Balthar) soil

★ Soil of North Bihar

- ◆ The soil of North Bihar is formed by the rivers Ganga, Gandak, Burhi Gandak, Kosi, Mahananda and its tributaries originating from the Himalayas. The soil of North Bihar is divided into four sub-categories.

(i) Piedmont soil

- ◆ This soil is found around the Someshwar range in the north-western part of West Champaran.
- ◆ Due to heavy rainfall in this area, the soil has more moisture and is more fertile. This soil is mainly suitable for the cultivation of paddy and sugarcane.

(ii) Terai soil

- ◆ This soil is spread on the northern border of Bihar from champaran in the west to kishanganj in the east in a 5-7 km wide strip.
- ◆ In some places, pebbles and sand are found in large quantities in this soil and marshy land has also developed in many places.
- ◆ The soil is light brown or yellow in colour, this soil is suitable for the cultivation of paddy, Jute & sugarcane.

(iii) Old alluvial (Bangar) soil

- ◆ This soil develops in those areas where flood water does not reach every year.
- ◆ This soil is mainly spread in the western part of Ghaghra-Gandak Doab and Burhi Gandak.
- ◆ It is also spread in Purnia, Saharsa, Darbhanga, Muzaffarpur etc. areas.
- ◆ This soil is also known as Balsundari Soil.
- ◆ This soil has abundance of lime and potash and lack of phosphorus and nitrogen. It is alkaline in nature. Mainly paddy, wheat, maize, tobacco, sugarcane are grown in it.

(v) New alluvial (Khadar) soil

- ◆ Khadar soil is formed from the sediments brought by rivers every year.
- ◆ This soil is spread in the lower valley of Ganga, Gandak, Burhi Gandak, Kosi, Mahananda.
- ◆ The colour of this soil is dark brown, in which sand and clay are predominant in it.
- ◆ There is a lack of nitrogen in this soil.
- ◆ This soil is very fertile, in which paddy, wheat, jute, maize etc. are produced well if there is adequate irrigation.

★ Soil of South Bihar

- ◆ The soil of South Bihar is spread between the Ganges River and the Chotanagpur Plateau. On the basis of the structure of the soil, the soil of South Bihar has been classified into four parts -

(i) Tal soil

- ◆ Tal is a low land area which remains flooded during rainy season. Tal soil is spread in a 8 to 10 kilometer wide strip from Buxar to Bhagalpur on the southern bank of Ganga.
- ◆ This soil is coarse-grained, grey in colour and heavy.
- ◆ Rabi crops grow well in this soil. This area is famous for pulses production.

(ii) Kagari soil

- ◆ This soil is spread on the south bank of the Ganga river and on the banks of the Son, Falgu, Punpun, Kiul rivers. Its fertility is somewhat weak.
- ◆ This soil is known for the production of coarse grains and vegetables.
- ◆ The main crops grown in this soil are maize, mustard, chilli etc.

(iii) Old alluvial (Karail-Kewal) soil

- ◆ This soil extends from Buxar, North Gaya, Patna, Nalanda, Munger to Bhagalpur.
- ◆ This soil has high fertility and also has high water absorbing capacity. The colour of this soil is dark brown, light yellow.
- ◆ The main crops grown in this soil are maize, paddy, millet, potato, pigeon pea, wheat etc.

(iv) Red yellow (Balthar) soil

- ◆ This soil is spread in a 8 to 15 km wide strip from near the Kaimur range in the west to the high land of Rajmahal in the east.
- ◆ This soil is found in the Kharagpur hilly area of Jamui, Munger, plateau areas of Banka, Nawada and Aurangabad.
- ◆ This soil has abundance of sand and pebbles and its fertility is quite low. The water holding capacity of this soil is also low.
- ◆ Due to the predominance of iron element, it is red in colour and its nature is acidic. Coarse grains like maize, sorghum, millet, pigeon pea etc. are grown in this soil.

★ Other important points-

- ◆ Red sandy soil is found in the plateau regions of Kaimur and Rohtas.
- ◆ Sand and laterite soil are also found in this soil.
- ◆ Coarse grains like jowar, bajra, maize are mainly grown in this soil.

Forests and Wildlife

Bihar is a monsoon region. Mainly monsoon deciduous forests are found here. These deciduous forests are divided into two parts on the basis of their speciality-

(i) Moist Deciduous Forest

(ii) Dry Deciduous Forests

(i) Moist Deciduous Forests- These forests are found in areas where the average rainfall in a year is more than 120 cm.

- ◆ In Bihar, moist deciduous forests are found in Kishanganj, West Champaran (Valmikinagar forest) and the border areas of Nepal.

- ◆ Trees like sal, semal, jamun, teak etc. are found in such forests. Apart from this, bushes like sabai grass, elephant grass, reed, cane grass etc. are found in these forests.

(ii) Dry Deciduous Forest- These forests are found in areas where the average rainfall in a year is less than 120 cm.

- ◆ This type of forest is found in most parts of Bihar.

Disaster Management in Bihar

Bihar is a plain state where the main disaster is flood. Apart from this, Bihar also suffers from disasters like drought, earthquake, cyclone and heat wave.

★ Flood - Out of 38 districts of Bihar, 28 districts are flood affected. Out of these 28 districts, 15 are highly flood affected and 13 are less flood affected districts.

- ◆ The maximum impact of flood is seen in North Bihar. The flood affected area of Bihar is 16.5% of the total flood affected area of India.

Highly flood affected districts (15)	East Champaran, Muzaffarpur, Vaishali, Sitamarhi, Sheohar, Darbhanga, Madhubani Samastipur, Saharsa, Supaul, Madhepura, Khagaria, Begusarai, Bhagalpur, Katihar
Less flood affected districts (13)	West Champaran, Saran, Siwan, Gopalganj, Purnia, Kishanganj, Patna, Nalanda, Bhojpur, Buxar, Lakhisarai, Sheikhpura

★ The main causes of flooding

- ◆ Bihar has two months of intense rainy season.
- ◆ The low lying terrain and topography of Bihar.
- ◆ Lack of water management in Bihar.
- ◆ Breaking of embankments and human expansion in water catchment areas etc.
- ◆ Heavy water flow in the rivers of north Bihar during rainy season.

★ Drought: Drought situation arises due to uncertainty of monsoon and unscientific exploitation of water.

- ◆ About 20% of Bihar's area is affected by drought.
- ◆ The main districts affected by drought are Aurangabad, Gaya, Nawada, Rohtas, Kaimur, Munger etc.
- ◆ For drought control, it is necessary to use modern irrigation methods such as drip irrigation, sprinkler irrigation etc. and construct canals.

★ Earthquake - Bihar's geographical location near the Himalayas gives rise to the possibility of earthquake here.

- ◆ Different areas of Bihar are divided into different zones – ZONE V, IV & III depending on the possibility of earthquake.

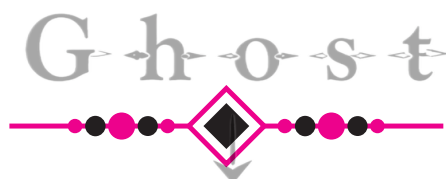

Zone	District
Zone- V (High intensity)	Kishanganj, Saharsa, Supaul, Madhepura, Araria, Sitamarhi, Darbhanga, Madhubani
Zone- IV (Medium intensity)	East Champaran, West Champaran, Saran, Vaishali, Patna, Siwan, Sheohar
Zone- III (Low intensity)	Gaya, Aurangabad, Rohtas, Kaimur, Buxar, Bhojpur, Munger

★ Cyclone - Bihar is not geographically a coastal state but due to its proximity to the Bay of Bengal, Bihar is sometimes affected by disasters like cyclones.

- ◆ The cyclone originating in the Bay of Bengal affects the border districts of Bihar along West Bengal & Jharkhand.
- ◆ The cyclone mainly affects the eastern districts of Bihar such as Kishanganj, Purnia, Bhagalpur, Katihar, Araria etc.
- ◆ Heavy rain and strong winds in a cyclone cause loss of life and property.

★ Sendai Framework and Bihar

- ◆ The third United Nations World Summit for Disaster Risk Reduction was held in March 2015 in Sendai city of Japan. In this conference, 7 major goals related to disaster risk reduction have been set up. India adopted the Sendai Framework on June 1, 2016. Bihar is the first state in India to implement the action plan related to the Sendai Framework.

Economy of Bihar

- According to Bihar Economic Survey 2024-25, the growth rate of Bihar's economy has been 9.2 percent in the year 2023-24.
